

Why Choose Us?

We offer free virtual tutoring and homework assistance from the comforts of your home.

We provide one-on-one tutoring and/or tutoring in small groups, which creates an open space for students to ask questions on topics they find challenging.

We offer study and test-taking techniques based from our own experiences.

Our Mission

Our mission is to fulfill the students' goal of expanding their knowledge and capabilities by providing peer-to-peer support during these unprecedented times.

Our Goals

Provide

To provide a virtual learning environment for students from grades K-12.

Help

To help students overcome educational barriers and challenges.

Incorporate

- To incorporate an educational strategy for each student to exceed growth!

Improve

To improve students' academic performance in all subject areas.

Meet the Tutors

Zaniya Battle - Peer Tutor

"I am a junior at Halifax County Early College that will be pursuing an Associate of Science degree. I decided to become a Halifax County tutor to help students reach their highest potential in education. I love to work with others especially during these times of COVID-19. By becoming a tutor, I can gift my knowledge and skills to others who can use it in the future to help them expand their education to be successful."

Kelsey Boyd - Peer Tutor

"I am a first-year student, majoring in Public Health (Health Policy and Management), at the University of North Carolina at Chapel-Hill. I became a Halifax County tutor because I am extremely passionate about helping various students improve in all academic subjects I am able to assess them in. Seeing each and every individual reach their goals on assignments will bring joy knowing that I am able to help others grow as learners."

Joanna Cipriano - Peer Tutor

"I am a second year student at Halifax Community College pursuing an Associate of Science degree. I became a Halifax County tutor because I wish to give students the help they need, especially during these challenging times. It can be a struggle to work on classwork and homework all on their own, which is why I want to share my study skills that may potentially help a student."

Chantel Gillus - Peer Tutor

"I am a first-year student at the University of North Carolina at Chapel-Hill, majoring in English and minoring in Political Science. I became a Halifax County tutor solely because we are experiencing hard times during a pandemic and it is to my understanding that many children are struggling with their school work. Therefore, I believe I can share my knowledge and be a valuable resource to students in need."

Makayla McNair - Peer Tutor

"I am a junior at the Northampton County Early College pursuing an Associate of Science degree and an Associate of Art degree. I became a Halifax County tutor because as a student myself, I understand that there are times when we will need help. This pandemic has made school more stressful. I wish to help students through this stressful time and allow them to seize the potential that I know they have."
